

RETRAINING PROGRAM FOR IMMIGRANT ENGINEERS

Cooper Union’s Retraining Program for Immigrant Engineers (RPIE) is a free professional development program for immigrant, refugee, and asylee engineers looking to build a competitive portfolio for the professional workforce and career they want.

RPIE is currently limited to New York City, but educated immigrants across New York State struggle to find jobs matching their skills. Expanding RPIE statewide could help these individuals secure relevant employment. However, identifying which regions would benefit most from this expansion is crucial to use resources efficiently and assess the program's potential success.
